LOCAL BRIEFS.—

Go to church to-day.

St. Patrick's Day—in the morning.

Two street fights yesterday. Nobody hurt.A roving band of Gypsies passed through the city yesterday. Let 'em pass.Seed oats and white peas at Osborne's grain and feed store, Wilmington street.Gen. W. D. Jones returned to the city yesterday. No news from the Jones-Young contest.There will be a regular meeting of Hiram Lodge No. 40, F. A. M., tomorrow evening at 7th o'clock.R. M. Furman, Esq., Editor of the Asheville Citizen, passed through the city yesterday, en route to his home.Jas. D. Brooks, the popular agent of the Wilmington Life Insurance Company, is confined to his room, by sickness.Mr. Wm. Andrews living near the Central Depot was kicked by a mule in the right groin late yesterday, and at latest accounts was suffering the most intense pain, and his condition is considered somewhat critical.GENERAL COX AND ST. PATRICK'S DAY.—Our distinguished citizen, Gen.
W. R. Cox, accepts in the following graceful manner an invitation to be present at the St. Patrick's supper tomorrow night:

CAPT. T. F. LEE, Chairman, &c.:

Sir—I am in receipt of the kind invitation to be present and participate in the celebration of "St. Patrick's Day," on the 17th inst. I assure you it will afford me much pleasure to do so.It is highly appropriate for the sons of Erin to honor this day, and for others appreciating how prolific she has been of statesmen, warriors and poets, and how much she has contributed to our own glory and goodness, to unite with her sons on this occasion.

Very respectfully yours, &c.,

W. R. COX.

Near Raleigh, March 14th, 1873.

HON. JOHN G. SAXE.—Our citizens will remember that this distinguished gentleman will lecture at Tucker Hall in this city on Monday the 24th inst.We learn that Mr. Saxe will only lecture in this city one time, and we again call upon those who wish to enjoy a feast to go and hear him.Tickets for reserved seats can be had at Branson's Bookstore. Secure them early.The following is taken from the Boston Post:"Of the poem by Hon. John G. Saxe, we would say that nothing of its kind was ever received with more true delight, the audience warmly applauding its touches of sound sense and noble sentiment, and indulging in the greatest mirth at the poet's sparkling wit, felicitous expressions, and the lively tone that pervaded every line."ST. PATRICK'S DAY.—To morrow, the 17th inst. is St. Patrick's Day in the morning, and will be observed in this city by not only the Sons of Erin's Isle, but by our citizens generally who will participate in the celebration supper-morrow night at the Yarborough House. Dr. Blacknall and his estimable lady will have everything in readiness, and a grand gala time is reasonably anticipated. We received too late for publication a lengthy programme for the day prepared by Father McNamara, but we can say that it is highly attractive and no one will regret that he was there. We have no doubt but the Dining-room of the Yarborough House will be crowded to excessive overflow. Tickets for sale at the drapery stores and book stores.ST. PATRICK'S DAY.—To morrow, pleased to learn that this Order of Temperance is making rapid progress in the State. Four new Councils were organized during the last week with an average of some 25 or 30 charter members.The Friend is a Southern order based upon white membership, and extends from West Virginia to Texas, in which latter State alone there are upwards of 30,000 members, and over 200 Councils.One hundred and fifty Councils have been organized in this State.Dr. W. H. Howerton, entered upon obtained.ENTREPRENEUR.—In walking around our little city yesterday, and arriving in the neighborhood of the R. & G. R. R.

Shops, and casting our eyes in the direction of the "old Bayonet Factory," we were greeted with a full view of a large frame building under construction, and proceeding to it, we found that our young and enterprising friends, Betts, Allen & Co., had purchased the site of the old "factory" and were putting up mammoth work shops to accommodate their rapidly increasing business. These gentlemen are first-class workmen, and turn out their work in good style and at short notice.

A NORTH CAROLINA NOVEL.

The preface to the second edition of The Angel in the Cloud intimates that a novel is in course of preparation by the same author. The success of Mr. Fuller in the field of poesy, achieved as it was in the treatment of a subject ill adapted to suit the popular taste, and, as we conceive, unwisely selected upon other grounds, was as marked as it was flattering. For the novel, which we learn will soon be given to the press, we predict an enthusiastic reception. The rare imaginative powers so abundantly displayed in a didactic poem, will in romance find a proper field for their exercise. The scene is for the most part laid in North Carolina, and the time before and during the war. Political or war scenes do not enter, however, into the plan of the work. Let us hope, as we may indeed with reason, that the work will add fresh laurels to the merchant poet.

THE PROPOSED NEW STATE.

The Asheville papers have been discussing for several weeks, the proposition made through the columns of the Asheville Pioneer, Radical, to divide North Carolina, by striking off a number of our Western counties and adding a portion of East Tennessee, for the purpose of constituting a new State!

We have not noticed the matter thus far, as we did not think the proposition was made in good faith, or, if made in good faith, there was so little reason or other ground to support it, it would fall to the ground without attracting attention.

The Asheville Expositor seriously replies to the arguments (f) of the Pioneer, antagonizing the latter's views, and showing the folly and absurdity of the proposed measure.

We would have been content to let the matter abide the discussion of our Asheville contemporaries, but for the fact that the papers of Tennessee have entered into the contest, which has called forth some comments from the New York press.

It is not our present purpose to do more than enter our solemn protest against a proposition which looks to a division of our noble old Commonwealth.

North Carolina is, in many respects, one of the best States in the Union. Despoliation of any of her territory cannot be justified by any principle of justice, common sense, convenience or necessity. She gave the State of Tennessee, and she cannot be expected now to silently submit to further dismemberment, to aid in forming a new State, simply to gratify a few individuals.

The people of the West as well as the East will enter their solemn protest against a measure which would sever in twain their beloved State.

THE AMOUNT ACTUALLY SAVED.

We have stated that the rescinding of the contract between the Coleman Brothers and the State of North Carolina would save over two hundred thousand dollars to the State. To show that this estimate was not overdrawn, we give the following figures:

The stone and brick work under the Coleman contract, according to the figures of the Colemans themselves, would have cost four hundred and twenty five thousand dollars.

According to the estimate of Mr. Hicks, the architect at the Penitentiary, the same could be done with the labor of the convicts for two hundred and eleven thousand dollars. Thus, by the employment of convict labor, the State would save two hundred and four thousand dollars.

Mr. Hicks farther estimates that if the plan be changed so as to substitute brick for stone, the building could be made about equally as substantial and convenient, and the cost would be only ninety-eight thousand dollars, instead of two hundred and eleven thousand.

In order to rescind the contract, the State paid the Messrs. Coleman thirty-five thousand dollars. This sum added to the ninety-eight thousand dollars, the amount required to complete the Penitentiary with convict labor and brick entire, gives one hundred and thirty-three thousand dollars for the whole cost to the State for a job, which under the Coleman contract, would have cost four hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. This makes an actual saving of two hundred and ninety-two thousand dollars, as the following figures show:

Cost of Coleman contract.....$125,000
Paid by convict labor.....21,000
Saved by convict labor.....$144,000

If brick substituted for stone, the work can be done for.....$8,000
Amount paid by State to rescind.....$5,000
Deduct this amount from cost of original contract.....$125,000
And we have saved.....$220,000

These calculations are based on the estimates of the architect. Remember that the contract with the Coleman Brothers was made by the Radical Commissioners, appointed by the Radical Legislature of 1868-'69, and that it was rescinded by the Conservative Legislature of 1872-'73.

Dr. Chapin, like Mr. Beecher, writes constantly for the weekly press; both are editors.

IS THE STATE FAIR TO BE REMOVED FROM RALEIGH?
The citizens of Raleigh are aware of the fact that a subscription of ten thousand dollars by them, is necessary to secure the retention of the State Fair at this place. At a meeting at Metropolitan Hall on Friday evening, it was resolved "that unless the ten thousand dollars necessary to commence the work is subscribed by the 25th of March, the Executive Committee of the State Agricultural Society are directed to communicate with other cities in North Carolina concerning the location of the Fair at some other point in the State."

The business men of this city are fully cognizant of the great benefits they derive from each anniversary of the State Fair. They have not yet realized the slenderness of the tenure by which they have held it, nor the imminent danger of its removal to some other place. It will be the duty of the Executive Committee to take immediate steps for its establishment elsewhere, in case the above amount is not raised. The Charter of the Society requires the annual holding of the Fair in order to obtain the $1,500 yearly donated by the State. The Fair must be held somewhere next Fall, and unless our new grounds are ready it can not be held here.

The city of Charlotte, we understand, offers ten thousand dollars and its Fair Grounds, already ample and well prepared, to secure its location at Charlotte. This is the matter in a nut-shell—the ten thousand dollars must come, or the State Fair must go. Seven thousand dollars have been subscribed, only three thousand more are needed.

Will it be obtained? It rests with the merchants and other business men of the city to determine. They are the parties most nearly interested and the issue is with them. If the Fair once leaves Raleigh it will never return. Let them put that in their financial pipe and smoke it.

Since the above article was written, we have been shown the following letter, addressed to a member of the Executive Committee of the State Agricultural Society, and which being germane to the subject above discussed, we have been permitted to publish, for the information of our citizens:

Dear Sir:—As there seems to be some anxiety as to the future of our State Fairs, owing to the indifference of the city of Raleigh to the matter, I desire to show wherein it will be decided to the advantage of the Society, and all concerned, to have the State Fairs hereafter at this point. Charlotte is the railroad centre of the State. It is as convenient to all points in the State as Raleigh now, and will be much more so when railroad lines, now under construction, will have been finished.

It is close to South Carolina and Georgia offers the finest opportunity for competition from those States, which will great increase the interest in the State Fairs it held here. Our citizens will very willingly give to the Society our Fair Grounds, and will subscribe enough to properly enlarge, improve and equip them, making them equal to any grounds in the South. And we will not ask contributions from the State or any other source. We claim that our city is the London of the State, and is still growing in strength and beauty. Our city affords as many attractions, and more, than any city in the State, for the favorable consideration of the Society. The energy and liberality displayed by our people in their county Fair is evidence of what we will do if we are given the State Fair. I believe it will be to the interest of the State Society, and consequently of interest to the object of that Society, to have its expositions here, hereafter. Our whole community would hail with delight and liberality the action of the State Society in making this its centre of attraction for all of its future expositions. Let it be done.

CHARLOTTE, March 13, 1873.

AMNESTY AND THE STATE DEBT.

We copy below from the Magnolia Monitor comments upon an extract from the New York Times. The Times gets its views of the situation from the Radical standpoint, which authority is of such exceedingly doubtful character, that if it stumbles on the truth it is by accident.

The amnesty bill, now the law of the land, received the unanimous support of every Conservative in the Legislature, and the bonds passed by the Radical Legislature of 1868-'69, which Swepson bought up for two hundred and forty thousand dollars, and which Littlefield corrupted and bribed.

The tax payment of that portion of the State tax will be resisted in the highest legal Tribunal of the land.

The following is the article from the Monitor, edited by Capt. Stanford, a member of the North Carolina House of Representatives:

The Democrats in the North Carolina Legislature are, with incredible folly, pressing the bill for the pardon of the members of secret societies guilty of violations of State law, including murder. The Democrats claim to be the representatives of the most intelligent part of the constituency, and of the property owners. Yet they are, by this one act, doing more to keep capital and industry away from the State than they can undo for years. As if this were not enough, they are urging repudiation of a portion of the State debt.—New York Times.

We clip the above article from a paper called the Spirit of the South, published in Rockingham, in this State, of the Radical persuasion in politics. As to the public debt of North Carolina we simply have to say that if the editors of the Times and the Spirit of the South live until the Legislature of North Carolina makes provision for the payment of the Special Tax Bonds, our humble opinion they will be several years older than the very old man we read of in the Bible. The taxes necessary to defray the ordinary expenses of the State government, and provide for our charitable and penal institutions are all our people in their impoverished condition can bear, and the Legislature that would impose additional burdens, would be recreant to the high trust confided to it by the people, and the members thereof would be very apt to retire for a while to the shades of private life.

As to the amnesty bill which passed the Legislature a few days before the adjournment, we can't see anything very monstrous about it. On the contrary we think it a wise humane measure, one calculated to do much good, and we rate the Legislature well for carrying out a policy inaugurated by the Administration. Read the following taken from the Piedmont Press:

No More Arrests.—The following has been handed to us, and as a matter of interest to some of our people, we publish it:

The Rev. Mr. Norwell Mason, a prominent minister of the Baptist church, died at Yanceyville, N. C., on the 4th inst., in the 65th year of his age. In his younger days he was known as "the Boy Preacher."

Henry Battle, colored, convicted at the late term of Wilson Court of highway robbery, and sentenced to the Penitentiary for ten years, made his escape from Wilson jail on Sunday morning.

The Battleboro Advance learns that a young lady of Nash county, distinguished for her literary attainments, has written a novel of rare merit, which will be published soon. Parties who have read the MS. speak of it in the highest terms.

Carswell, the temperance lecturer, is listed ahead as follows:

Charlotte, Thursday and Friday, March 20th and 21st.

Salisbury, Saturday and Monday, March 22d and 24th.

Fayetteville, Wednesday, March 26th.

Raleigh, Thursday, March 27th.

Kinston, Friday, March 28th.

Wilson, Saturday, March 29th.

Some paper having said that Asheville boasts of fifty old bachelors, the Citizen indignantly denies the accusation. It says: "We have counted and re-counted, and can't make out but forty-one, and can say, without perjuring ourselves, that that number will be greatly diminished before the frost nips the coming vegetables."

The Asheville Expositor, of the 13th inst., thus treats of a subject of much importance to the people of Western North Carolina. Says the Expositor:"The senior editor of the Expositor, Col. Thomas D. Carter, has just returned from a trip North, and he begs leave to inform the readers of this paper that this trip was undertaken, in what he conceived to be the interest of the people of Western North Carolina.

He is happy to be able to say that he has reliable written assurances that large capitalists will, if they can get possession of the W. N. C. R. R., not only comply with all the requirements of the bills passed at the late session of the Legislature, but that they will, in addition, take the assets of the Company (two Divisions) and assume the liabilities of the same; and that they will not only give unexceptionable guarantees of its completion to Paint Rock in three years, and to Waynesville in four years, but they will also guarantee the completion of the Ducktown Branch to the most practicable point on the Tennessee or Georgia line in the county of Cherokee, and that they will prosecute the entire work vigorously and unceasingly to its completion.

These parties do not propose to await the adjournment of the Company's indebtedness before commencing the work, but will take the road now, let the decision of the courts be what it may, and assume all its liabilities, and will fit, with the Commissioners appointed under the late bill, "any amount of security that they can reasonably require, of their ability to complete the road; and further, that they will commence the work in ninety days after they get possession."

The text of the new lien law of Georgia has been published. It is the most comprehensive of any of the States, as far as we are advised. It gives a lien on the year's crop by special contract under the statute to all factors, merchants, landlords, dealers in fertilizers, and to all persons furnishing money, labor, materials, or other articles necessary to make crops, and also to all those who supply clothing, medicine, or provisions, medical service, tuition, or school books. These liens are declared to be superior to all other liens except those for taxes, laborers' wages, and those of landlords.

THE LEGISLATURE.—The Durham Tobacco Plant says of the session just adjourned:

"The Legislature adjourned on the 3rd inst., to meet again on the 3rd Monday in November. Upon the whole, considering the many disadvantages under which the small democratic majority in the Legislature labored, much was accomplished. It was not a body noted for extraordinary ability, but what is better, energy and perseverance. The members as a general thing were sober, well behaved and hard workers."

Says the Pe De Heral:

"The members of the Legislature, we suppose have generally reached their homes before this time. While some can proudly meet their constituents, having faithfully discharged their duties and labored to promote the general good—there are those who have not sought to advance the interests of the people so much as their own private interests. We think we but express the sentiments of the people of the county and senatorial District when we say that they are proud of the position which their representatives acquired and maintained during this session. But few men have ever taken a higher stand in any Legislative Body at their first entrance into it than Col. Bennett. The press of the State have on several occasions adverted to his great ability in shaping the business for the judiciary committee of which he was chairman, as well as his clear and comprehensive views on all subjects before the House. Mr. McCauley, the Senator for this District, has in his quiet and effective style, served his constituency faithfully and well. May we always have such representatives."

Minature likenesses of George Washington and Martha Washington are for sale in Boston. The history and description of these pictures is given by the Boston Globe as follows:

"The pictures were given by General Washington himself to his sister, Betty Lewis. In distributing her valuable slippers (Mrs. Lewis) gave them to her granddaughter, Mrs. Carter, who in turn gave them to her daughter, Eleanor Carter, who bequeathed them to her son, John Patterson, who is their present owner. The miniatures are set in a plain solid gold frame, after the style of the antique medallions, and enclosed in a plain leather case, which, from frequent handling, is well worn. The pictures are each surrounded with the hair of the originals, probably placed there to enhance their value as souvenirs."

They are offered for sale solely because Mr. Patterson, who at present resides near Richmond, lost all his property during the war, and feels compelled to part with them.

The "Industrial Exhibition Company of New York" has, it is said, obtained sufficient guarantees to insure the success of their undertaking. Whether or not their buildings will be completed by the time fixed for the great Centennial at Philadelphia is at present unknown; but it is proposed to open at the same time if possible, and to run a very serious opposition to the Philadelphia glorification. The buildings to be erected will be permanent, and in them will be concentrated a perpetual World's Fair, a public Museum of Arts, Industries, Science and Philosophy, a World's Library, a grand hall for popular entertainments, and a Botanical Garden. The main structure will cover a square of ground, and will be in the Oriental style, the centre dome rising to the remarkable height of five hundred feet, and being surrounded with Moorish spires and minarets.

A Texan whose brother had been killed by "Wild Bill," a noted desperado, bought a horse and pursued him 900 miles. Catching him in Kansas he shot William so dead he didn't kick; and turning to the crowd in the bar room, asked if any gentleman present desired to "mix in?" No one wanting to "mix," he mounted his horse and rode back to Texas.

The Commercial Reports of the 20th inst. say: "We have counted and re-counted, and can't make out but forty-one, and can say, without perjuring ourselves, that that number will be greatly diminished before the frost nips the coming vegetables."The Asheboro Advocate praiseth the immediate Representatives of Nash county in the General Assembly. Messrs. Lindsey, Dunham and Davis. We heartily endorse the endorsement.

GILHAM'S COTTON FERTILIZER.

For the protection of the planter.

A SPECIALTY FOR COTTON!!

Its Merits have been Practically Tested by some of the most Prominent and Successful Planters in North Carolina and Southeastern Virginia!

And is too Well Known to need any Praise at our Hands.

We refer to those PLANTERS who have applied to us for our FERTILIZER, and have given us a LIST of their NAMES and furnish them a PAMPHLET of their TESTIMONIALS, giving their opinion and experience in using our FERTILIZER.

COTTON FERTILIZER.

Now that it matures the cotton sooner—by several weeks, and nearly double the yield, and that the increase of price is so great, we offer it to the public at a low price. Test it for yourself.

C. W. GRANDY & SONS

Special Agents, Norfolk, Virginia.

THIS STANDARD FERTILIZER

Made especially for the COTTON CROP.

has been used throughout the COTTON GROWING REGIONS of NORTH CAROLINA and SOUTHEASTERN VIRGINIA with such flattering results that the Southern Farmers and Planters are now using it with great success.

It is necessary to double the power of our FERTILIZER.

The cotton is more abundant and larger.

MADRIGAL.

Every robin red-breast takes himself a mate!
Say the birds, sing the birds, "It is wrong to wish a footed spring glides out at summer's gate."

So I heard the birds sing, once upon a day: "O, my treasure! O, my pleasure! Can't thou say me nay?"

Birds' songs and birds' nests and green boughs together, All gone! Love alone laughs at bitter weather. Summer days or winter days; little rocks Love what; If so that Love has his own, his darling way.

Ah, my fairest! Ah, my rarest! Can't thou say me nay?"

In the wood the wild-flower is sunken out of sight, Love is deep down and world for- gotten quite.

But do you think the wind forgets that she was sweet and white?

Then listen to his sad voice a little while I pray!

O, my cruel! O, my jewel! Can't thou say me nay?"

The sun stole to a red rose and wiled her leaves apart; May and Juneair had waded her at the start!

But wot not fair the sun should have her golden, perfect heart!

Let me choose one short word for timid lips to say:

Ah, my precious! My dearest! It shall not be me!"

HOWARD GLYNDON.

We are permitted to publish the following brilliant jeu d'esprit, the first time, we believe, it was ever in print:

Nat. Willis, the poet, was at the grand soiree given by Mr. and Mrs. Gales, at their residence in Washington City, to the Hon. John A. Campbell, then just returned as the Minister to Mexico, (now a prominent citizen of New Orleans). Mr. Campbell was, of course, the distinguished guest of the evening, and received from Mrs. Gales very great attention.

But that lady observed that her niece, Miss Seaton, was even more attentive to Willis than she herself was to Mr. Campbell, and feared it might be thought impudent in one so young, and wrote on a slip of paper her fears, requesting her niece not to be so particular in her attentions to the poet. This slip of paper was seen by Mr. Willis, who asked leave to reply to it, which he did as follows:

"Why, my dear aunt, would you me trans- melt?

You still at a Nat and swallow a Camp- bell."

Jim H., out West, tells a good yarn about a "shell bark lawyer." His client was up on two small charges, "irrational charges," as shell bark designated them (forging a note of hand and stealing a horse). On running his eyes over the jury he didn't like their looks, so he prepared an affidavit for continuance, setting forth the absence of a principal witness. He read it in a whisper to the prisoner, who, shaking his head, said: "Squire, I can't swear to that doc- timent." "Why?" "Kase hit haint true." Old shell inflated and exploded loud enough to be heard throughout the room. "What! I forge a note an' steal a horse, an' can't swear to a lie! Hang such infernal fools." And he immediately left the conscientious one to his fate.

In an editorial on the horse disease, the Congregationalist suggested that it might be well to sit at the feet of a horse and learn humility. "Just so," says the California News Letter, "sit down at the hind feet of a mule, and if he don't humiliate you, pull his tail and tickle the inside of his legs with a stablefork."

A raw countryman, gazing at a garden in the vicinity of Boston, in which were several marble statues, exclaimed, "Just see what a waste! Here's no less than six scare-crows in this ten-foot patch, and any one of them would keep the crows from a five-acre lot!"
